MEDICAL COMPLICATIONS IN PREGNANCY

for Obstetricians, Physicians, and Obstetric Anaesthetists

This annual course, now in its 17th year, is highly relevant and appropriate for all consultants and trainees caring for pregnant women with medical disorders. It can provide the theoretical element of the RCOG ATSM in Maternal Medicine. Leading specialists from the UK and overseas will discuss the most important and common medical problems which complicate pregnancy, delivery and the puerperium. The management of medical disorders pre-dating pregnancy and those arising during pregnancy will also be covered.

Monday 31 October - Wednesday 2 November 2011

Course Directors:

Professor Cathy Nelson-Piercy, Dr David Williams and Professor Catherine Williamson

This course will be followed by
